Tennessee Holds Impressive Record With Eight Wins

Meeting their toughest competition in the S.E.C. will require every bit of the skill the Wildcats posses when they tangle with the Tennessee Volunteers in Knoxville tomorrow

Impressive Record

Tennessee has an impressive record, rolling up eight victories in nine attempts, losing only to Temple points, Tennessee by only four.

The contest should prove valuable in deciding the holder of the 1945 conference title. The records prove Kentucky the stronger, but Coach Rupp has lost the service of Groza, who averaged 16.5 points a game whereas the Vols have improved greatly since their eastern trip. The Volunteers have defeated two conference rivals this season; Alabama and Mississippi State.

Now that Groza has departed for the army, the team is a little low in spirit and rightfully should be, losing a potential All-American. Most of the slack has been taken up by the inspiring play of "Dutch" Campbell who is trying his very best to fill the noticeable gap in the Kentucky lineup. However, more is still needed-the support of every student in the stands. Many local Groza, Kenton "Dutch" Campbell high schools have shown more spirit in their organized cheering will have his chance to prove his sections than the Wildcat rooters have displayed. The nation's .29 8 11 66 number 1 team deserves more support on the road to victory. Score at half: Michigan State 24.

Why not give them every bit of encouragement possible!

In checking back over the records LeRoy (Big Boy) Edwards scored 33 points in the Creighton game in 1935 which still stands as the all-time individual record for a Kentucky player in a single game and also holds the record for a single season with 334 points able to the team as the season proin 21 games played in 1934-45. His average for each game was 15.9 points, whereas Groza totaled 165 points in 10 games for an average of 16.5 points. If he had been able to complete the season he may have been able to set a new record.

If you are wondering why Michigan State lost by an overwhelming score, it may be attributed to the story a friend of Kentucky told the visiting team on the train coming to Lexington. It seems that the Spartans were not too overconfident of winning in the first place, so this UK supporter decided to help the cause by telling them of the greatness of the Wildcat quintet and how they could play to beat them. Before this friend finished his tall tales the Spartans were thoroughly beaten and proceeded to read comic books, with the coach playing poker in hopes of library operated and sponsored by winning back some of the expenses for the seemingly unneces-

Kentucky fans will have a lot of competition from the Notre Dame cheering section at the Kentucky-Notre Dame basketball game in Louisville January 27. No student section was reserved for the match and the 101 students who have bought tickets plus the fifty or more who plan to attend the game will find themselves scattered over half of Louisville's large

Although SuKy, student pep organization, is paying all expenses for the band and 25 of its own members, there can be little organized cheering from the Kentucky side

The Notre Dame five will have ample support from its followers, for early last August the Notre Dame alumni association bought a bloc of 835 seats, almost one entire side of the gym!

Maybe SuKy's block of 25 seats, the band, and a few students scattered through the crowd can make up in enthusiasm what the Notre Dame fans have in numbers, but it will take a lot of work on their part. Kentucky's cheer leaders will have some new problems to overcome if they expect to get a response from the fans.
